

SOUTH COAST RMP REVISION

- Land use planning is a requirement of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 (FLPMA).
- Land use plans ensure that public lands are managed in accordance with the intent of Congress as stated in FLPMA;
- Encourage multi-jurisdictional planning in partnership with tribal governments, state and local governments, other agencies and active public participation.
- Land use plans typically have life-span of 15-20 years.
- Significant changes in circumstances, policies, resource conditions, or new data may require a new plan or revision.
- Plan revisions require an environmental impact statement (EIS).
- Planning and public involvement begin with Notice of Intent published in the Federal Register.
